Are the costs of preparing payroll and working drawings, of engineering and other office functions, and those general administrative costs involving home office personnel reimbursable or are they to be covered by the fee? Let us know. Code analysis Building codes, fire codes, plumbing codes, electrical codes and a number of other codes and regulations may apply to the project being planned.

While each phase serves an important function, the most thoroughly planned stage is where the team collectively develops deliverables to satisfy the customer.
