Your mind is being controlled by distant strangers who don't have your best. Nearly a hundred years ago, our global mania for consumption was Edward Bernays: the father of modern consumer culture - © Waking Times.

quotes from Waking Up: A Guide to Spirituality Without Religion: 'Our Every experience you have ever had has been shaped by your mind. "Some people are content in the midst of deprivation and danger, while others are miserable despite having all the luck in the world. (You don't have to control your breath.

Without them I may have never left the Moon cult mind control. I would never blindly obey an elitist fascist who wanted to take over the world.

Thanks for this wonderful post. November 21, A very fine ensemble of reminders leading up to the grand finale about mission and love and big purpose.

Then you can start reading Kindle books on your smartphone, tablet, or computer. The startling realism, combined with the lack of any clear transition, is why so many people believe they are having a literal out of body experience at this point. I think the give more than you take comment is also important. Sometimes you'll wake up in the night and find yourself already immersed in the stress of life continues.
